A SUMMARY IN PRINCIPLE

It is not that we all need to believe the same thing... it is that the one thing we are all living needs to be recognized.

Life is having a spirited experience that constantly occurs with continuous operation... ALIVE!

The evidence of this is everywhere, in everything.

The following perspective reveals life with an outline based on the principles of existence.

INTRODUCTION

This work understands whole existence, as a complete system, from the only possible origin... and with all known things having a rightful place, confirms it as such.

Its unique perspective uses positive, negative and neutral, as a simple way to describe the complexity involved with developing initial environments of force.

Its repeating structure provides a principle outline for whole existence, and proof of concept.

Recognition is found in every part of existence. Without recognition there is no structure for development. It is key in understanding the relationships and capabilities of life as energy.

Life is a combination of all things possible. The existence of human being reveals both evolution and creation.

Existence is connected, functioning with structure from origin. It develops a form of growth out of inherent factors traceable to a foundation.

THE CONCEPT OF LIFE

The pure motion of infinite nothing is the spirit of life and foundation for existence.

Time is a product of this operation, a measurement... without operation, there is no matter or time.

Nothing on an infinite scale... it is nothing that continues on beyond any value, no matter how large indicates a force.

A force so weak, it pulsates on the verge of existence in every possible direction as a sphere, establishing an environment of force in atmosphere:

All physical existence is represented in this initial state.

This continuous unified operation resonates with frequency a replicating force. While there is not enough existing force to develop the potential energy contained, replication takes place as an extension of force.

Replication allows what is. The ability to produce and reproduce possible representation evolves into spores, seeds, and live birth here on earth.

Force is capable of existing anywhere there is nothing (Dark Matter) and as more force exists, the more accelerated an existence of force becomes.

The creation of force continues infinitely.

Environments of force are individually neutral. It is together, as a group that recognizes the positive and negative characteristics of pulsating weak or strong.

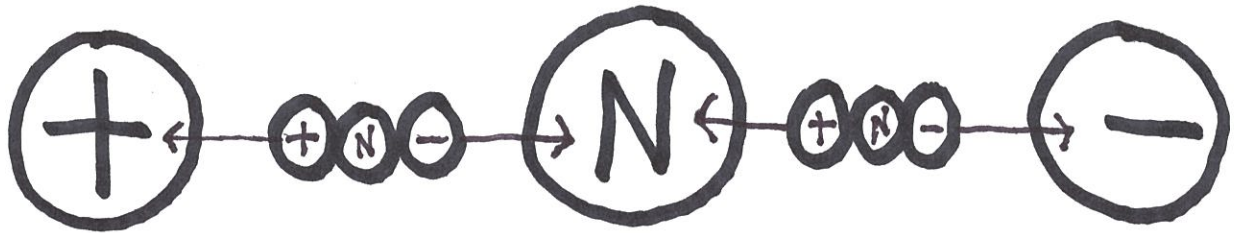

Neutral energy is always free to take the place of neutral energy (like light is absorbed and emitted) producing a force that recognizes the whole state of existence with an interactive experience (Spirit).

Groups of force form a common bond, to function as a system that shares vibrations and frequencies

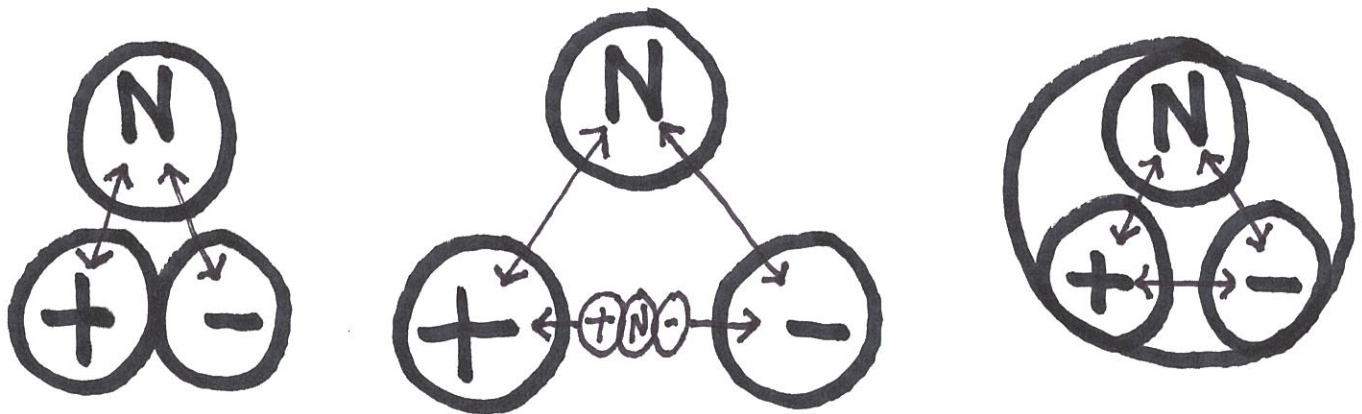

Atmospheres of environment in force pulsate all at the same time, in waves... whatever is possible.

Systems develop and operate like water or smoke, with the buzz and ring of sound.

A basic representation of all possible force recognizes an atmosphere of environments capable of the sustained development necessary for neutral, positive and negative elements to hatch into distinct physical environments:

Opposites attract: The same repels: A whole concept:

No matter how complex evolving energy becomes, it is built on this foundation:

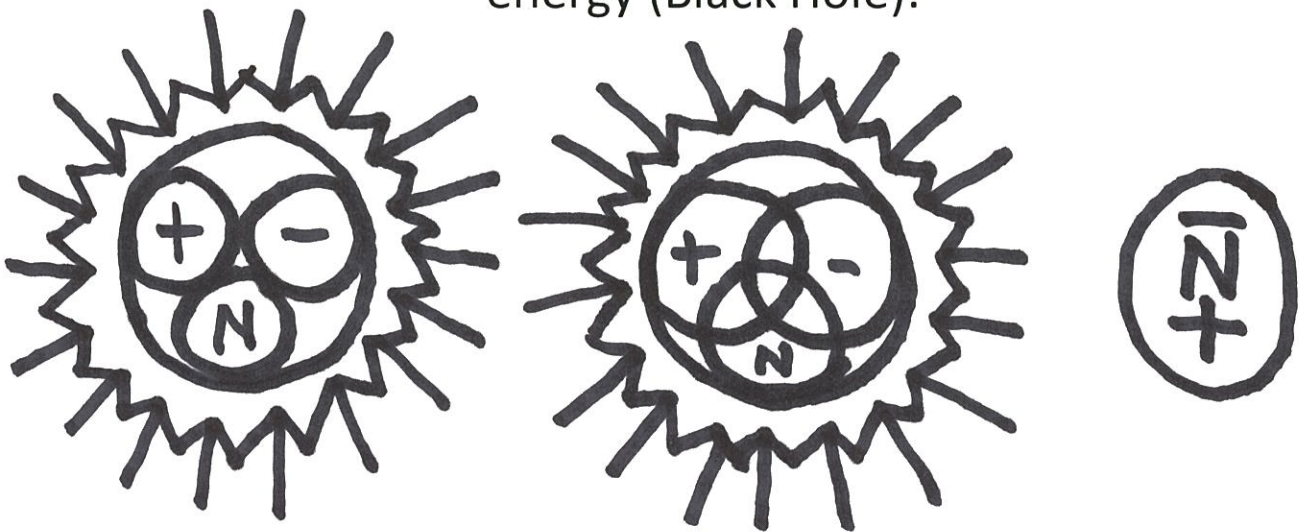

Taking no shortcuts, developing from one extreme to another, life is completely consumed by the task of creating possible existence... generating every combination of gas, liquid and solid, that collect in mass to produce systems rotating in orbit.

Environments become so massive/dense that the pressures involved cause a collapse of the structure as exploding or imploding energy.

Unequal force results in a chain reaction of exploding energy.

Equal force from all around results in a chain reaction of imploding energy that permanently fuses all involved energy (Black Hole):

From nothing to an atmosphere of environments that contains a structure so massive/dense existence is not sustainable, establishes a system that cycle with whole representation... providing balance and relative stability.

(At this point, in this atmosphere of environments, the concept of energy cannot be created or destroyed has some validity).

While the creation of gas, liquid and solid continues outside this stable atmosphere of environments infinitely, inside energy development refocuses to evolve and create new forms of potential existence.

An environment neutral in extremes has the balance allowing new concepts in life to evolve from energy already in existence. This environment is not too hot or cold, wet or dry, big or small, stable or unstable...
it is planet Earth.

The pulse of life resonates at 7.83 Hz here on Earth, a frequency that communicates the recognition of ideal conditions in environment for development.

On this planet gas, liquid and solid in the forms of water, air, earth and fire combine in every possible combination as minerals and establish a foundation for vegetation.

Vegetation adapts in this environment evolving from spore and seed, until so massive, sustainable existence is not possible... creating the environment for animals.

Animals adapt to this environment with the freedom of movement in body, and instinct of life in mind, until so massive and numerous, sustainable existence for all is not possible.

Planet Earth now has the necessary representation and balance allowing energy to refocus and recognize a being capable of comprehending whole existence.

Life is aware with a shared experience and the function of feeling a sense in structure completely understands the process of evolution and creating existence.

A whole being is recognized in spirit, and a new combination of existing energy creates a human.

After millions of years of evolution here on earth, there is overwhelming evidence to support human beings bursting onto the scene as a force, started building structures using math, orientated in astronomy and communicated with symbols containing enough detail to document history... and in only a few thousand years, which finds us here with things like the Hubble telescope.

Conditions necessary for the evolution and creation of a human being are closest to impossible to replicate... naturally with a planet or artificially with technology.

Humans are individually tuned with life and display various understandings in recognizing a unique connection to it.

It is normal for each different representation of possible human being to exist within extremes as male or female, black or white, good or bad, healthy or handicapped... as more people exist the more extreme representations become, including artificial alteration.

Connected in every way to an infinite foundation, the human experience completes an extreme possibility for structured energy... and represents a turning point. No single creation was, is or will be as capable as a human being, and artificial creations confirm it.

Whatever can be imagined, there will be someone, somewhere at some time compelled to manifest it. This continues to drive possible development and produce things that otherwise wouldn't be.

Humans adapt and manipulate with imagination, until so numerous/artificial existence is not possible.

CONSCIOUSNESS

Consciousness is aware of an experience in life.

It is a mistake to recognize consciousness only when something has an ability to form thought with a mind. A mind allows the comprehension and imagination of it.

A connected force evolving from inherent factors naturally processes everything that ever was into every moment... a regenerative live record that lasts forever.

The record of existence is a memory in experience.

Plants recognize seasons, Animals sense approaching weather and distant earthquakes...

Humans have a distinct comprehension of consciousness that is capable of understanding the connections in spirit with whole existence.

Humans receive the energy of existence in sense, and in a feeling of recognition, release it as emotion.

When senses become a sense and emotions become an emotion, the transcending freedom of spirit is experienced (Feeling the flow/in the zone).

Artificial technology is disconnected from spirit... unable to access the living record of existence, or experience a sense of awareness in feeling alive.

Artificial intelligence is without imagination, or comprehension of consciousness... limited to artificial infrastructure, and neural networks with deep learning algorithms that generate recognition isolated in the realm of databases.

HUMAN CONCEPTS

Human concepts express an imagination where anything is possible... it is principles that define facts and beliefs to provide the correct context.

Belief is powerful, and it is easy to get lost with belief in mind. Concepts of imagination and the mediums of expression allowing belief to seem real, can complicate, confuse and distort the reality of what is.

Scientific, religious and governmental institutions use frequent repetition and psychological exposure to content that reflects favorable conditions of actual facts as standard education to prepare human masses for a lifetime of routine obedience.

Science provides a structure for facts that, at a point, is factually limited with incomplete structure and scale.

Religion provides a structure for belief that, at a point, is limited, with potential belief in infinite realities.

Government provides a structure for societies that at a point, limits freedom with control.

Not willing to completely accept what was and is in fact, suggests an attempt to project an image of what is perceived to be ideal objectively and subjectively... and this will always contain made up, make believe stuff.

SCIENCE

Science is a system that isolates parts of life, to be dissected and manipulated for specific identification and description relative to its scales of consistency.

Metric or standard... consistent measurement allows mathematics. Math began with one in structure, and in scale it gains positively or negatively into infinity with fractions that limit an ability to reach the next whole number... and in reality, there is no way to compensate for disconnected content.

Using only a percentage of pi for calculation... things do not have to be exact for human understanding or application.

All enforceable limits of expression found in math are due to the disconnected artificial structure using a different dimensional scale of infinity in relation to actual physical existence... all its functions and forms, will not allow the connections to be made when it comes to defining something like a whole functioning human.

An understanding based exclusively on a system that is not whole or complete, reflects that in its findings

Life is complete, and the science of it provides details, using artificial systems of symbolism and formulation, with scales that suggest the recognition and definition of life without a spirit.

RELIGION

The concept of god is simple, life recognizes life.

All energy acts, reacts and interacts with matter... and that capable of believing, believes in it.

God has taken on many different identities in human belief. Participants of specific beliefs identify differences with a claim to be something other than a human being.

It is no surprise that life did produce someone of unmistakable form to guide us with recognizing what is.

Life is the father with Jesus being born in Immaculate Conception.

LIFE IS GOD – EVERYTHING IS A PART OF IT.

GOVERNMENT

All concepts in life have some form of government.

Even chaos is governed by freedom. Freedom is free. With the absence of constraint, freedom is effectively determined by a tolerance for what is.

Humans can and do form groups that attempt the claim of control in an inhabited environment. Artificial borders promise security, prosperity and/or repression enforced with loyalty, patriotism and/or fear.

Naturally this produces a pyramid scheme, which allows those at the top every luxury, while those at the bottom regularly struggle for survival.

The attempt to control life on this planet has divided it with communism, socialism and capitalism fronts that are rooted in some form of totalitarianism.

From this relatively enduring position an administrative structure makes up rules, establishes and maintains artificial infrastructure, provides institutional education, and plans efforts that perform vital functions to prevent wavering, turmoil and agitation resulting from a prescribed way of life.

Money is an idea based on accepted worth.

People needed money to be made of something in value that could be physically held, in order to trust using it as trade for everything, everywhere.

Governments established monetary systems to provide refined metal coins as currency. A tax on property, goods and services returned money to fund government operation. This system is still used in some form today.

Crypto currency is artificially generated money that uses block chain technology for accountability to provide worth... completely fabricated.

A fabrication does not require tax for operation. Government issued crypto currency is artificially generated, budgets can be based on population... each person equals a yearly amount to fund federal, state and local governments.

NO MORE TAXES!

The only reason to tax fabricated money is for control.
An endless cycle of debt keeps people poor and needy.
It also prevents powerful things like actual ownership of properties from occurring.

With industry supplying the products, it is no surprise that corporations have the leverage and capital to buy or force a controlling interest in economic systems... allowing greed to continue disrespecting indigenous life.

The real issue with money is it devalues life into a product.

The government is society is trivial (Politics) as the power of action will always be with the people.

CURRENT LIFE

Today, almost all humans are effectively domesticated from generations of routine obedience and accepted artificial production resulting in a way of life that has no sustainable solutions.

The human system commonly exhibits an accelerated degree of adaptive structural modification to its host that causes real damage to the fundamental frequency of balance allowing sustained existence.

Together, humans have established a way of life to experience what is possible for humans.

As the human population grows, so must the artificial infrastructures that support it... at the expense of all other things, towns and cities spread like a virus and infect, contaminate, pollute and taint everything contacted with artificial substances and vibrations.

Artificial infrastructure is rapidly killing eco systems, sterilizing environments, polluting the atmosphere... covering it with buildings, roads, railways, parking lots, airports, cell towers, satellites... dependent on fossil fuels to produce electricity, endless plastic products, chemicals for machines that mine, harvest and transport materials, genetically modified food... a way of life that consumes massive amounts of electricity from batteries, wind farms, solar fields, nuclear power plants... that all emit harmful disruptive frequencies and toxic chemical waste.

With designer people on the horizon and a push to incorporate humans with machines, the manipulation possible with Crispr/cas9 technology is interrupting a natural ability to communicate in spirit and will destroy life with a progression that attempts the adaptation and takeover of existence on Earth.

A death star scenario... we are the story of aliens.

A notion that we can solve the problems with building, preserving and upgrading artificial infrastructures is silly.

Because that process depends on further altering landscapes and harvested materials.

A system of continued growth consuming anything and everything that can be taxed or sold is doomed to fail.

The sustainability ship sailed the day I was born. Enough key positions had been corrupted by then. SOLD OUT!

Sadly, at some point people tend to stop questioning with whole life in mind, or will justify their own wrong doing, to take advantage of anything or everything for personal gain or convenience.

When governments, institutions, corporations and media work together to promote or block an agenda, misguide or ignore issues and suppress solutions, it leaves us with the same continuous unsolved problems... rules are made in favor of producing things with minimum regulation for maximum profit. Almost free eco friendlier technology like the water fuel cell is kept from public existence. The documentary film Cancer Cure Crisis is a good example of this.

The creation of destruction humans are capable of today is producing with technology and artificial infrastructure excess baggage that has serious consequences.

Green energy does not exist artificially.

The amount of resources and waste it takes to harness, produce and distribute any kind of energy (Goods and services) is damaging to the environment.

The Earth is sick because of us.

Sustaining the current artificial way of life for the people already in existence will exhaust the resources needed within the century.

FINALLY

A collapse of the twin towers in New York City signaled the start of Armageddon... the first seal of the apocalypse was broken with a crown of anti-terrorism.

A way of life in global collapse on an overpopulated, artificially contaminated planet that is out of balance, allows the mark of the beast to become a reality.

This mark serves as a useful way to maintain/take control of life on a global scale, with a system of tracking that can scan a marked human being anytime, anywhere...

This creates individual accountability (Slavery) to an unreasonable way of life owned by those who control society... easily identified and required to pay a tax for existence (Forced into service), be jailed or eliminated.

No humans need this mark still some will wait in line to sell their soul for a chip out of dependency or temptation in artificial life.

Life is just as pleasant as it is harsh, and to experience it is an understanding... however, life can become very complicated when an understanding of something is clouded with a storm of beliefs in made up stuff.

We now all live in the era of posers taking selfies.
Self absorbed people with self serving agendas, who promote and consume all that is made up, and have ideas like the world revolves around self.

Most people don't care to think,
some people think they are thinking, and a few people are actually thinking.

In reality most people only know a few things for sure,
and even that is riddled with misunderstandings and made up beliefs.

The current artificial way of life complicates a human beings ability to process consciousness, enslaves societies, disrespects life into products, limits sustainability, is promoted by those who have sold their souls to it (Beasts), and is accepted by those who have become dependent on it and those who do not care enough about or recognize whole life.

When the storm is over and the clouds are gone, humans will recognize, with definition, life and the consequences of manipulating and contaminating existence to experience what is possible.

The meek are to inherit the earth, those with whole life in mind. How we leave it for them is our legacy.
